Greetings Doc,

I hope this finds you doing well.

Please let this serve as an introduction to my beautiful daughter, Holly Boos.

For those of you who don't know me, my name is Dr. Howard Boos. I've been practicing Chiropractic in Tulsa, Oklahoma for 40 years. My father was a chiropractor along with three uncles and two cousins.

Doc, I'll keep this short and sweet. It's in regards to the value that a health / life coach could bring to your patients' experience in your office.

In my estimation there is not a greater, more qualified individual on the planet than a doctor of Chiropractic to serve as a wellness coach.

And, yet if you're practicing Chiropractic "right" you absolutely don't have time to be one!

Enter a trained health coach, certified in Integrative Nutrition. Especially one with a background to include being born at home within a family living a Chiropractic lifestyle.

Running a busy practice sometimes means that I am unable to answer some of the questions my patients have concerning pertinent subjects such as nutrition, meditation, exercise and even what's safe to buy in the grocery store and what's not.

With someone who has the training like my daughter, Holly, I can rest assured that all those questions will be answered while at the same time reminding my patients of the primary importance Chiropractic plays in their healthcare.

My patients appreciate that I've seen to it that they have an available ongoing resource to help guide them, coach them and support them long after their office visit is over.

And, what's more, the service costs you zero and requires zero office space as she consults via Zoom or FaceTime.

There you go, I promised it would be short and sweet.

Holly will be happy to answer any questions.

Best wishes,

Dr. Howard J. Boos
